in ethics and the autonomy of philosophy bernard walker sets out with two objectives first walker argues that ethics is autonomous as a discipline oftentimes ethics books from a christian perspective lean toward grounding ethics in theology or in biblical proof texting walker departs from this tradition ethics grounded in theology entails a limited scope for those doing ethics in that the christian god must be assumed for both christian and non christian when at the table of ethical dialogue for the non christian this loads the dice and shuts down ethical consensus and dialogue if not ethical truth with that said this book does not depart from christian ethical views on such issues as the sanctity of life antiracism the death penalty the objectivity of ethics and the importance of integrating faith into ethics however walker does so from a common denominator of philosophy rather than theology second walker ventures into the streets and engages the man woman on the streets approach to ethics and ethical decision making he points out the shortcomings of the ubiquitous views of the man woman on the streets viz cultural relativism skepticism and the attitude that ethics is merely a matter of personal choice
