Clyde Aspevig

A master of atmospheric perspective Aspevig uses subtle shifts in value and colour to create a profound sense of depth and distance His compositions are often characterized by a masterful use of negative space allowing the subject to breathe and enhancing its impact Analyzing his work reveals a calculated approach to creating visual harmony and balance Aspevig notes that Negative space isnt empty its active It shapes and defines the positive space creating rhythm and tension

Kevin Macpherson

Macphersons work demonstrates the effective use of light and shadow to create dramatic compositions He uses strong diagonals and contrasting values to build tension and draw the viewer into the scene His work highlights the power of observing the interplay of light and form in shaping the overall composition Macpherson emphasizes the importance of previsualisation I spend a considerable amount of time planning my composition before even touching my brush to the canvas
