kenneth laing challenges the concept of irenaeus as the primary witness to the point at which the new testament achieved scriptural status and calls into question some of the most basic conclusions and assumptions of new testament canon formation scholarship laing proposes a new interpretation of irenaeus understanding of the nature and basis of authority of the new testament writings based on his christocentric theology of revelation by exploring the texts themselves the concept of authority scriptural tradition and the question of inspiration laing argues that while the writings possess authority equal to the jewish scriptures it is their apostolic origin and the apostles relationship to christ not inspiration which forms the basis of the unique revelatory authority of the new testament writings laing thus stresses that irenaeus regards the new testament writings as a written record of the apostolic tradition and the primary means of accessing its content rather than as a purely scriptural text
