the book is the first historical reconstruction of italian political events over the last thirty years that is the period from the tangentopoli crisis of the early 1990s to the present day in particular the book examines for the first time in a systematic and documented way the controversial relationship between parties and intellectuals highlighting the distance not to say the unbridgeable gap created between politics and culture in italy in the last three decades the decades of the so called second republic in other words it tries to explain why the close link between politics and culture that was the hallmark of twentieth century politics has dissolved in italy and through what stages we have come to a substantial incommunicability between these two worlds in the last three decades this book explores the relationship between diverse social movements and marxist historical cultures during the second half of the twentieth century in western europe with special emphasis on the federal republic of germany and italy during the cold war marxist ideas and understandings of history informed not only the traditional communist parties in western europe but also influenced a range of new social movements that emerged in the 1970s in the wake of the 1968 student rebellions the generation of 1968 was strongly influenced by neo marxist ideas that they subsequently carried into the new social movements the volume asks how marxist historical cultures influenced third world movements anti fascist movements the peace movement and a whole host of other new social movements that signaled a new vibrancy of civil society in western europe from the 1970s onwards have marxian ideas been relevant or influential in the writing and interpretation of history what are the marxist legacies that are now re emerging in present day histories this volume is an attempt at relearning what the discipline of history once knew whether one considered oneself a marxist a non marxist or an anti marxist this book deals with the popular reception of early italian television during the years of the so called long economic boom 1954 1969 to do so the author focuses on the catholic and communist audiences perception of the first tv programs the investigation into these two main groups reception will be conducted through the analysis of all the tv references published in the readers columns of the two most popular rotocalchi of those years the catholic magazine famiglia cristiana and the communist weekly vie nuove showing the collective discourse about television made by very different types of audiences through the use of letters published by these popular magazines this study points out how television s impact was also a mediated process therefore the innovative proposal of this book is to suggest an in depth study of the reception and cultural history of the early italian television
