for readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life in the first chapter of volume i i reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work it would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion the basic question that will be answered in this work is this is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better alternatively one could put the question thus if one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better om to simplify matters i often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively
