with a surprisingly honest and hard hitting approach this scathing indictment of the modern black family postulates that a lack of appreciation for literacy in the african american household is the true cause of low scores on today s standardized tests arguing that television video games rap music and sports are all distractions from much needed study time the discussion stresses the significance of literacy in a child's future and the importance of parental involvement toward shaping that future in an educational climate where most of the blame for a child's poor performance is placed upon the teachers, the curricula, and the social structure of the schools. This discussion ultimately places the responsibility back in the hands of the family and offers them suggestions for improvement.

This series takes advantage of the latest research related to standardized testing. It prepares not only students but also teachers and parents for successful testing experiences. Each book in the series presents test-taking strategies and anxiety-reducing tips. The practice tests cover grade-specific standards-based content. The test questions are similar in style to those found in current standardized tests. There's no magic in these books; they're not fancy, but they offer the very best preparation for making the most of testing and getting results that accurately measure what each student knows.
