a theology in tune with postcolonial theory has the potential to creatively inform and transform ecclesial practice focusing on the relation of theology to postcolonial theory postcolonial theologies brings together a wide diversity of authors many of them fresh and exciting theological voices in essays that are stunningly creative and prophetically lucid all essays are theologically constructive not merely deconstructive or critical in their visions for christianity forming a sort of doctrinal landscape they emerge under the themes of theological anthropology shaped by ethnicity class and privilege a christology that intersects the claims of christ and empire and a cosmology that imagines a postcolonial world

the future of the disabled in liberal society questions developments in human genetic research from the perspective of persons with mental disabilities and their families hans s reinders argues that when we use terms such as disease and defect to describe conditions that genetic engineering might well eliminate we may also be assuming that disabled lives are deplorable and horrific reinders points out that the possibility of preventing disabled lives is at odds with our commitment to the full inclusion of disabled citizens in society the tension between these different perspectives is of concern to all of us as genetic testing procedures proliferate reinders warns that preventative uses of human genetics might even become a threat to the social security and welfare benefits that help support disabled persons and their families reinders also argues that this conflict cannot be resolved or controlled on the level of public morality because a liberal society makes a commitment to individual freedom and choice its members can consider the diagnostic and therapeutic uses of human genetics as options available to individual citizens a liberal society will defend reproductive freedom as a matter of principle citizens may select their offspring in accord with their own personal values reinders concludes that the future of the mentally disabled in liberal society will depend on the strength of our moral convictions about the value of human life rather than on the protective force of liberal morality one of the most important aspects of this book is reinder s attention to parents who have come to see the task of raising a disabled child as an enriching experience these are people who change their conceptions of success and control and therefore their conceptions of themselves they come to value their disabled children for what they have to give even though disabled children and disabled adults present parents and society with real challenges the rewards are just as real this powerful critique of contemporary bioethics is sure to become required reading for those interested in human development special education ethics philosophy and theology mired inside its rather archaic comprehension as a medical phenomenon disability for a long time now has been ignored as a marker of identity the world has only been busy in rectifying the absences that have ostensibly dis abled rather than accepting such impaired existences as human beings themselves the volume intends to reclaim the representations of disability and present narratives that do not just use the figure of the disabled as a means to an end it includes translation of 17 disability centric short stories from multiple indian languages into english further it uses these stories as illustration to test and develop new theoretical formulations concerning disability and the disabled what grants the proposed work its uniqueness is in other words not only the translations of the erstwhile lost stories of disability but also the use of these stories towards the formation of theoretical paradigms to move forward the project of disability studies the volume shows interrogates and problematizes the affect that impairment and disability has on those who are abled it presents how the normal human being approaches the disabled and interacts with them all in all owing to its academic engagement with disability as a phenomenon and within a narrative this work intends to take the role of a resource book that will find ready use in the newly emergent multidisciplinary field of disability studies and will be of great significance to india and the world at large especially since literature has a major role to play in this field not only then does it present different disability narratives to the world but through their academic interrogation also allows researchers and academics especially in india to form the theoretical enhancements in disability studies that both our country and the world desperately require deaf people are subject to different concepts of the deaf and disabled and their place within society there is a danger that some deaf people will become marginalized within the prevailing policy or service framework which in itself mitigates against full rights choice and participation there is therefore a great need to identify a common language for the experience of oppression and empowerment which all deaf people can share without sacrificing their rights to self definition this volume of essays attempts to identify the shared experiences of disabled children and examine the key debates about their care and control the essays follow a chronological progression while focusing on the practices in a number of different countries
