an open access edition of this book is available on the liverpool university press website and the oapen library the crisis in israel palestine has long been the world s most visible military conflict yet the region s cultural and intellectual life remains all but unknown to most foreign observers which means that literary texts that make it into circulation abroad tend to be received as historical documents rather than aesthetic artefacts rhetorics of belonging examines the diverse ways in which palestinian and israeli world writers have responded to the expectation that they will narrate the nation invigorating critical debates about the political and artistic value of national narration as a reading and writing practice it considers writers whose work is rarely discussed together offering new readings of the work of edward said amos oz mourid barghouti orly castel bloom sahar khalifeh and anton shammass this book helps to restore the category of the nation to contemporary literary criticism by attending to a context where the idea of the nation is so central a part of everyday experience that writers cannot not address it and readers cannot help but read for it it also points a way toward a relational literary history of israel palestine one that would situate palestinian and israeli writing in the context of a history of antagonistic interaction the book s findings are relevant not only for scholars working in postcolonial studies and israel palestine studies but for anyone interested in the difficult and unpredictable intersections of literature and politics

a coffee seller waits all day for one of his customers to ask him how he is until eventually he just tells the city itself a teenager is ordered off a bus at a checkpoint and told he must kiss a complete stranger if he wants the bus to be let through a woman pilgrimages to the cave of the prophets to pray for rain for her tiny patch of land knowing it will take more than water to save it unlike most other palestinian cities ramallah is a relatively new town a de facto capital of the west bank allowed to thrive after the oslo peace accords but just as quickly hemmed in and suffocated by the occupation as the accords have failed perched along the top of a mountainous ridge it plays host to many contradictions traditional palestinian architecture jostling against aspirational developments and cultural initiatives a thriving nightlife in one district with much more conservative religious attitudes in the next most striking however as these stories show is the quiet dignity resilience and humour of its people citizens who take their lives into their hands every time they travel from one place to the next who continue to live through countless sieges and yet still find the time and resourcefulness to create since the 1993 oslo accords the occupied palestinian territory has been the subject of extensive international peacebuilding and statebuilding efforts coordinated by western donor states and international finance institutions despite their failure to yield peace or palestinian statehood the role of these organisations in the israeli palestinian conflict is generally overlooked owing to their depiction as tertiary actors engaged in technical missions palestinian history differs markedly from that of other parts of the world causing many to treat it as a thing apart with its own special logic requiring its own mode of analysis contributors to this anthology however believe that palestinian structures and processes can be analyzed satisfactorily with the help of concepts and methods used in the social sciences while at the same time giving due weight to their specific features according to roger owen editor the book consists of four studies of economic and social history plus an introduction by roger owen other authors and articles are alexander schuch european penetration and the economic development of palestine 1856 1882 sarah graham brown the political economy of the jabal nablus 1929 1948 salim tamari factionalism and class formation in recent palestinian history and avi plascov jordan's border in habitants the forsaken palestinians sous le règne des dynasties ayyoubide mamelouke et ottomane d'innombrables pèlerins affluent en palestine donnant un essor décisif au développement de la pensée soufie dans le pays ce guide propose une dizaine de circuits travers les monuments et l'architecture islamiques qui reflètent les dimensions majeures du pèlerinage de la science et du soufisme the collection is divided into three sections international including israel united nations and the arab world a quarterly on palestinian affairs and the arab israeli conflict this book is the first anthropological study of suicide in the arab world today it discusses the effects of life under israeli occupation on the mental health of young palestinians using selected case studies of men and women who have attempted suicide in the west bank above all in the city of ramallah but also in jenin the book is not about martyrs or those who gain so much media attention by dying for a holy cause rather it concerns those who wish to die for entirely private reasons contrary to what might be expected fatal suicide levels in palestinian society remain low compared with western norms despite the many stress factors that have been shown to contribute to suicidal behavior in the west including unemployment and social deprivation in particular suicide is found to be contrary to the concept of palestinian identity of a people under siege for whom resistance is paramount rather than giving in to depression or despair above all nadia dabbagh's findings confirm the importance of what she calls the ripple effects of war her research was carried out after the first intifada during a so called peace building period but it clearly reveals the trauma suffered by palestinians living in the occupied territories the stories she tells mirror the disillusionment of those who had hoped that their lives would improve once fighting subsided and the palestinian national authority had been established the book aims to foster an understanding of suicide in the islamic world more generally looking at current and historical attitudes to death and self killing in islamic and arab thought the distinction between suicide and martyrdom is explored in detail as are current perceptions of these phenomena in the muslim world book jacket
